

Noir and The School Of Ghosts

Noir is a curious and adventurous 12-year-old boy, who has just entered a new high school called Shyels School, but he doesn't know that in this school there are... 5 ghost curses.

On the first day of school, he met his childhood friend Jack, who told him the rumors about the curses of this school. Noir didn't believe what his friend had told him, but he was curious to know if it was true in the end. At break time he went to the first place where a curse would be found: The cook's curse. She had to sneak into the kitchen between classes so the cook wouldn't notice. When he arrived he remembered what his friend Jack had said 'The cook's curse say that if you eat Stales's piece of birthday cake he will take you with him to the other world'. And that is what he did, he ate the small piece of cake very appetizingly, but nothing happened. Noir wasn't too impressed that this happened since his friend Jack liked to make jokes. When he was about to leave, out of nowhere a boy of about 13 years, very tall, blond and with a headband came out, the ghost asked him:

-Are you ready for a little trip?

Noir didn't have time to shout in fear or reply, because Stales took him to the other world. Out of nowhere Noir and Stales appeared in another very strange and terrifying world, it was all dark with a red moon that illuminated the entire city. The ghost was about to turn Noir into a cake so he could eat it just like he had done. But in front of the boy a girl appeared with a small bow that shot an arrow at the other ghost's hand and so the two ran out of there.

All safe and sound, the two appeared in a small room, it seemed to be the girl's house.

There, that mysterious girl asked him:

-Who are you?

- I'm Noir, Noir Anderson, I don't know what happened, but thank you very much for helping me. And who are you?

-Ahh so you're a human... I'm Ela the anti-curse. You're welcome to help you, Noirrr.

- My name is Noir and it is pronounced Nor- I correct Noir.

-It doesn't matter, now you have to get out of here.

- I'm not leaving until you explain to me what happened - Noir exclaimed.

And Ela accepted reluctantly. A long time ago this school was a college for magic, to learn how to be a magician. One day, Jyn, a shy boy entered this school, he was very talented and powerful with magic, until one day he got angry with the school for having taken away his magic for fear that he was so powerful. They couldn't remove all the magic from him as he resisted. In the end, they couldn't defeat him and he turned into a beast that destroyed the whole city. Jyn created 5 ghosts so that they could protect him from any threat. One day, when all hope in the world ended, a boy named Reo emerged and locked up the 5 ghosts in that school and made all the magic and memories disappear. Reo was the spark of hope needed to break Jyn's coldness. Currently the 5 curses are a rumor of this school and it will never be known where Jyn And this is the story, said Ela, and you can go now.

-Is there anything I can do?- Noir asked.

- Well Reo said: 'a human will be chosen to find the Khal stone that is hidden in some remote place on Earth to finally defeat Jyn and save us all'.

I will need your help to find the Khal stone and the chosen one.- She said.

The two spent a week looking for the stone, by seas, jungles, even volcanoes! But they still found nothing, when they finally found it deep in an underwater volcanic cave in Australia. On a pillar there was a bright yellow stone with the chosen name graved on it: RION. The two together looked at the stone with teary eyes and from there came the spark of hope. Reo's spirit spoke and said that the chosen one was really Noir, his name backwards.

Reo and the stone gave Noir the strength to finish off Jyn and find Jack.

Together again, Noir and Ela set out to find Jyn and Jack, it turned out that the stone was a dark magic detector and that was useful to search for them.

At last, they reached some ruins on an island, where they found Jack imprisoned. Jack's anger rose from his veins and he took out all the power he had inside to defeat Jyn. And that was how he defeated him and recover the peace on Earth.

THE END.
