

WAR

You just need to take a glance

And notice the fear in the eyes

Of those who don't want to die.

Listen to the youngest cry,

Praying to be reunited with their families,

Trying to imagine a life full of art.

Who do you think you are?

To break our hearts,

To introduce the fear into our lives,

And make us say goodbye

To the loves of our lives.

Let me your burned heart

So I could understand

The reason you ended my life,

And why you are doing this to all of us.